Awards and Endorsements:

Face Composite Software Recognized

Since its launch in 1998, FACES face composite software has been recognized as an innovative, well-designed, effective product, winning such accolades as:

President's Award (Crime Stoppers International) 1999

Crime Stoppers International is the world's largest volunteer crime-solving organization. In 1999, Dr. Alan J. Pratt, Crime Stoppers president, presented FACES creator Pierre Côté with a prestigious President's Award. Dr. Pratt cited IQ Biometrix's outstanding contribution to law enforcement in the field of crime solving and for dedication and support to society worldwide.

MIM Golden Award (Best Business Solutions) 1999

The Multi-media and Info-Highway International Market aims to be a meeting place for all new information technology and the communications industry. Their Golden Awards recognize excellence and innovation in the fields of multimedia, business solutions, technological innovation and special effects. FACES received the 1999 MIM Golden Award in the Best Business Solutions category.

Seal of Approval Award (National Parenting Center) 1999

FACES won The National Parenting Center's Seal of Approval in 1999. The Center conducts independent testing to judge products introduced and marketed in the parent/children consumer market. Their product testing division, run by independent testers including parents and educators, determined FACES to be a superbly designed product of high quality.

Product of The Year Award (Informal Education) 1999-2000

U.S.-based Informal Education Products, publishers of the Museum Tour Catalog, selected FACES as winner of their 1999-2000 Product of The Year Award. This award is presented annually by a committee that reviews customers' ratings on how the product scored in the areas of safety, creativity, quality, educational value, usefulness and inspiration.

Bronze Apple Award (National Educational Media Network) 1999

FACES earned the 1999 National Educational Media Network's Bronze Apple Award in the CD-ROM category. The honor is widely recognized in the United States as a standard of excellence in the educational media.

Police Sketch Artist Software Endorsements

FACES police sketch artist software has been endorsed by key crime-fighting agencies across North America. The FBI, CIA and US Military are among many agencies using the law enforcement version of our award-winning crime scene sketch software.

TRAK (Technology to Recover Abducted Kids) Endorses FACES Police Sketch Artist Software

Developed by SocialTech, a non-profit organization, TRAK is a child abduction alert system used by more than 1,300 law enforcement agencies in 32 states. TRAK is currently integrating FACES crime scene sketch software into its systems technology to ensure that abduction alerts include accurate suspect composites.

Federal Bureau of Investigation Partner Seal

The FBI was so impressed with FACES that it has authorized the police sketch artist software as an official training tool for agents. The bureau has purchased more than 900 licenses for FACES to use in its Quantico, VA, training center, as well as in-service training seminars for agents and the FBI National Academy in foreign countries.

FACES Crime Scene Sketch Software Endorsed By the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, Our Missing Children Program

FACES crime scene sketch software has been endorsed by the RCMP's Our Missing Children program as a critical tool in coordinated enforcement efforts to locate and return missing and abducted children.

Crime Stoppers International Endorses FACES Software